'A Miracle; It's a Miracle'

Benny Comes Up Alive; Workers Wouldn't Quit

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Frozen Stiff But OK

(From AP and UP reports)

MANORVILLE, N.Y. — A crew of never-say-quit workmen last night made a miraculous rescue of little Benny Hooper, who survived for nearly 24 hours in the bottom of a well.

Battling time and shifting sands without letup, the rescuers reached the boy 23 hours and 41 minutes after he tumbled into his father's newly-dug well shaft while playing behind his home.

"A miracle; it's a miracle," persons in the waiting crowd shouted as the slender, seven-year-old child was brought to the surface.

And two hours later at a hospital the examining physician said that except for shock and exposure Benny had suffered no apparent injuries.

UP AND UP

Dr. J. H. Kris said: "The boy's condition is good. He is able to talk and asked for food. He has taken some food. Everything is on the up and up."

The physician said, however, it will be necessary to keep a close watch for the next 24 hours because of the danger of pneumonia in such cases.

Dr. Kris said the plucky little fellow had come around sufficiently to show some temper.

MAD AT NURSES

"He's mad at the nurses. They wouldn't let him go to the bathroom and instead made him use a bedpan.

"His pulse is good—normal. He's warming up. His feet are still cold, but his temperature is getting back to normal."

The physician said: "He was frozen stiff when taken out—his jaw was clenched, and we could not get it opened at first."

He's quite a happy boy," Dr. Kris said, "but he—doesn't realize what happened or where he is. He thinks he's at his grandmother's house.

Weak movements and the flicker of his blue eyes signalled the miraculous survival of the youngster, for whom hope had been all but abandoned hours earlier.

He tumbled into a newly-dug well in the backyard of his father's Long Island home at 7:30 p.m. Thursday night. It was 7.10 p.m. Friday night when rescuers—heart breakingly frustrated through most of the day by landslides—finally broke through to his side from a rescue shaft.

In a few more minutes, Benny was taken from the dark, cramped well bottom by Sam Woodson, a Negro rescue worker. Said Woodson, beside himself with joy:

"I was the happiest boy alive when I saw his blue eyes."

COLOR GOOD

Benny, his color good and his eyes open, was taken by ambulance to a hospital at nearby Mastic Beach, N.Y.

There a doctor said he was conscious and "called for his mommy."

The boy was suffering somewhat from exposure. He was put in an oxygen tent for the night.

Dr. Joseph F. Kris put an oxygen mask over the boy's face as he was brought out. A reporter asked:

"Is he still alive?"

"Yes, thank God," the physician replied. Then, forgetful of everything else, Dr. Kris grabbed the reporter's hand and wrung it in elation.

Several hundred persons looked on at the climax to a feverish night and day of rescue efforts. From their throats came a hoarse half-shriek, half-sob of exultation as it dawned on them that Benny had survived.

Benny's father, who had worked with rescuers until he collapsed, then came back to keep vigil beside the well, shouted almost incoherently:

"He's alive, he's alive."

Then the elder Hooper dashed

"I Grabbed Him Hard And I Heard Him Cry"

Sam Woodson, a 39-year-old Negro building contractor, was the first worker to reach Benny Hooper Jr. Here is his story of the dramatic round-the-clock rescue.

By SAM WOODSON

MANORVILLE, N.Y. (UP)—I was digging carefully when I saw the jacket covering the top of Benny's head.

I started to brush the sand away from his coat and I heard him cry.

Just then we started to cave in. I grabbed him a little bit hard and I heard him cry.

I held on and took the coat off his head and he looked at me and started to groan.

I didn't have a chance to talk to him. I talked to God.

I had to yank Benny pretty hard because the sand really started coming. And when I yanked, John (Arambo, the only other worker in the tunnel with Woodson) yanked me to keep me from letting go. But we got him out.

He was very weak and damp but there was no water down there.

I thought of my little girl when we were digging and it helped me to keep on today when I was tired.

But when we found him, I turned to John and told him, "The boy is alive, thank God."

But we agreed to keep it quiet until we got him out of the hole.

Did Billy Help?

NEW YORK (UP)—Evangelist Billy Graham asked his audience of 16,500 in Madison Square Garden last night to pray that seven-year-old Benny Hooper Jr. would be rescued.

Later, Graham told his audience that "I'm happy to say that a few minutes ago they found that little boy alive."

More Take-Home For the Workers

POWELL RIVER, B.C. (CP)—Premier Bennett Friday night accused the Liberal government of draining money from B.C., muzzling the press, and repeated his criticisms of the tight-money policy and Fisheries Minister James Sinclair.

"It is ridiculous to have a tight money policy and an immigration policy at the same time," he told an election meeting.

The premier said a Social Credit federal government would give workers more take-home pay by increasing the basic income tax exemption by 50 per cent.

Mr. Sinclair's statement that Ottawa spends more money than it collects in B.C. "is not true."

DESPITE REPORTS

His charge of a muzzled press came when he referred to a widely-advertised Social Credit rally in Toronto. Mr. Bennett said it was successful despite newspaper reports to the contrary.

Mr. Bennett said he offered the federal government a partnership in the proposed development of the Columbia River.

"Lesage (Resources Minister Jean Lesage) told me: 'No thank you,' and yet the federal government was criticizing me for selling out to U.S. power interests."

Polio Drive Success Delights Organizers

First phase of the polio inoculation drive ended last night with the Victoria doctors who organized it "delighted" at the results.

During the past week 15,563 adults were given anti-polio injections at Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals.

Second shots will be given next month and third and final injections in January.

Russians Won't Accept Unlimited 'Open Skies'

MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said Friday Russia never will accept an "open skies" plan for air inspection of all the Soviet Union in exchange for inspection of all the United States.

Gromyko told correspondents at a diplomatic reception such a plan would be unfair to the Soviet Union. So would any plan for mutual inspection of a half, a third or any other identical fractions of the two nations' territories, he added.

"The next thing," the foreign minister said, "you will offer us aerial inspection of all Luxembourg in exchange for aerial inspection of all the Soviet Union."

This was interpreted as an obvious reference to U.S. Secretary of State Foster Dulles' offer of "open skies" over Canadian northland.

Cries Go Unheard

Little Boy Dies In Sewer Ditch

CODY, Wyo. (AP)—A two-year-old boy was buried alive and suffocated Friday in a narrow sewer line near his home.

Richard Thun apparently was playing in the five-foot-deep trench when his right foot became wedged between the clay side of the ditch and the pipe at the bottom.

A heavy power shovel filled in the trench with earth at 11 a.m., just 30 minutes after the boy's mother last saw him alive.

Armed with shovels and some using their bare hands, the men attacked the 20-foot sewer line. After about 45 minutes, they came across Richard's yellow cap.

With his right foot wedged between the side of the ditch and the pipe, he apparently was unable to free himself. And the power shovel was so noisy the boy's cries went unheard.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

AN American citizen who gets his name on a Canadian voters' list by mistake is a worried man. He has good reason to be worried. For casting a vote—sometimes for just having his name on the list—he can lose his citizenship.

Some federal enumerators have been gathering names by reading them off rural mailboxes, or by tapping neighbors for second-hand information on the telephone. They're entitled to do this, if they can't readily get in touch with the voter himself.

A number of United States citizens are caught in this net. As soon as they find out, they rush down to the returning office and ask to get off the list. But it isn't as easy as that. They must fill out an "affidavit of objection"—or get someone else to fill out an affidavit for them.

Any voter can lodge an objection to a name that is wrongly included. Much depends on the ordinary citizen's vigilance. A particularly sluggish enumerator collecting his names by rumor or by mailbox might enrol as voters a delegation of visiting Russian farm-hands who happened to be staying at a local boarding-house, or the dogs and cats that were guests at the SPCA kennels.

So if you see a Great Dane trotting into the polling booth with a ballot paper clenched between his teeth, you'll know there has been a blunder.

British Columbia dentists at their convention had a chance to live dangerously when guest speaker Dr. G. M. Shrum, scientist and head of the department of graduate studies at UBC, passed a chunk of radioactive material around the tables.

The radioactive stuff was part of a disused reactor rod from Chalk River.

"This will probably take three minutes off your lives," grinned Dr. Shrum, who likes to argue that the dangers of H-bomb testing are much exaggerated. "But the comforting part of these things that shorten your lives is that they shorten them at the far end, where it doesn't matter." Was there a tinge of fiendish delight in his voice?

Some of the dentists and their ladies and guests passed along the heavy object as though it were red hot. Others fondled it at great length, giving rise to the suspicion that they were tired of life.

At another point in the speech, Dr. Shrum observed that the amount of energy used by a laborer doing a day's work could be purchased from the electric light company for two cents—a depressing thought.

An Island correspondent says she likes the way the people in England handle their politics.

"Your neighbor doesn't necessarily know your political leanings, but on election day you tie a large red bow on your little daughter's hair, or blue, or black for the poor loser, as the case may be."

Here, she says, people are inclined to label you by the political meetings you attend.

"It is enlightening to go and listen to all parties, and to hear your neighbor say in a stage whisper when you come in five minutes late, 'What is she here for? They aren't CCF,' or 'They aren't Social Credit.' In my ignorance I thought if I heard them all I'd be better able to decide."

Elusive, Evasive

WASHINGTON (UP)—Norman Gessert, an elusive relative of teamsters president Dave Beck, invoked the Fifth Amendment 71 times in 21 minutes yesterday before the senate rackets committee.

Following the example of his non-commital kinsman, Gessert not only declined to answer questions but took back some of the replies he gave in a brief appearance before the committee Thursday.

He took the position that even to say whether he knew Beck might tend to incriminate him. This was in the pattern of Beck's refusal to say whether he knew his own son, Dave Jr.

Socreds and Tories Opposed Pensions

Both the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties are asking the public to forget that they previously opposed old-age pensions, Victor Williams, CCF candidate for Victoria, told a meeting last night.

Some 20 persons attended the meeting in Woodsworth Hall.

"The Conservatives were avidly opposed to old-age pensions only 30 years ago, and now they are promising an increase," Mr. Williams said.

"Before, the Conservatives were willing to crucify any person over 70 who could not work, and now they are willing to resurrect them," he said.

'IMPLACABLY'

Mr. Williams said that in 1945 Solon Low was asked if he was in favor of old-age pensions, health insurance, family allowance and unemployment insurance.

"Mr. Low said all Social Crediters were implacably opposed to them," Mr. Williams said.

"And everyone knows the Liberals' attitude to old age pensions," he said. "Their attitude is worth $6."

He condemned the Liberal government for allowing a health situation where people must beg for the money necessary for crippled children.

MILLIONS FOR BOMBS

"The government can spend all sorts of millions of dollars on atom bombs, yet people have to beg for money for cancer patients.

"Polio vaccine is practically free, yet cancer must beg. It is a very lopsided situation."

He said the people who take over organization of appeals for charity are "racketeers."

"Some of these organizers get up to $7,000 and $10,000."

He told the meeting that CCF members should go to other political meetings.

Four concurrent sentences of six months each were given Jacklin Leo Wilkinson, Maple Bay, by Magistrate Henry C. Hall in city police court yesterday morning.

The magistrate, however, felt that the actions of accused were deliberately planned and carried out.

Hot Dinner for Trout

"Educated" rainbow trout are fed individually on "spiked" minnows by Donald G. Watson, aquatic biologist, at the Hanford atomic plant in Richland, Wash. The minnows are spiked with radiophosphorus (P32) and the trout will show what effect a radioactive diet has on living tissues — theirs, anyhow. The trout had to be educated to eat at all, since they have a natural fear of feeding while separated from other fish.—(CPC)

Official Statement

Egypt Will Counter Israel Canal Move

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt declared Friday she "will take whatever measures she deems necessary if Israel attempts to send a test ship through the Suez Canal.

A statement by Abdel Kader Hatem, director of information, said Egypt "has the right to defend her territory and safeguard her security" under article 10 of the Constantinople Convention of 1888 governing passage through the waterway.

The statement, first official reaction to Israel's announced intention of testing her right of passage through the canal after its reopening, said:

"Egypt . . . will take whatever measures she deems necessary for the safety of the canal, which is an integral part of her territory."

The implication of the statement appeared to be that Egypt would seek to halt any Israeli ship the moment it enters her territorial waters and before it reaches the entrance of the canal, on the grounds she is at war with Israel.

An Israeli foreign ministry spokesman Thursday night said Israel will delay sending a test ship through the waterway until the Security Council again takes up the question Monday at France's request.

Hatem charged that Israel is "only a puppet in the hands of imperialism that budges as it is ordered."

HONG KONG — Harold Steele, 63-year-old British pacifist, says he still plans to die alone in the Christmas Island area even though Britain has carried out her first H-bomb test here.

Missile Discovery

Blunt Approach Solves Problem

WASHINGTON (UP)—One of the biggest obstacles to development of an intercontinental ballistic missile has been wiped away with a scientist's five-year-old discovery, the government said Friday.

The scientist, H. Julian Allen, found that if the missile were equipped with a blunt rather than a pointed nose, it would not burn up when plunging through the atmosphere. The solution, considered obvious today, was derided in 1952 when Allen proposed it.

Allen, chief of high-speed research at the Ames Aeronautical Laboratory at Moffett Field, Calif., received the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics' highest honor, the Distinguished Service Medal, for his finding.

Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, director of the advisory committee, said that in 1952 military men believed Allen's theory was "foolish."

The intercontinental ballistic missile will break free of the earth's atmosphere as it hurtles toward a target 5,000 miles away. Then as it approaches the target, it will plunge back into the atmosphere at a speed of 15,000 miles an hour.

If equipped with a pointed nose, it would burn up upon entering the air, much like a meteor.

But Allen showed that a blunt nose would rapidly cut the missile's speed to about 500 miles an hour. He said the blunt nose sets up a shock-wave or shield that throws off 99 per cent of the heat.

Frog Jump

Canadian Heavy Favorite

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. (AP)—A Canadian bullfrog—twice the size of his or her European, Oriental and domestic rivals—was the pre-jump favorite yesterday night on the eve of the 31st annual Calaveras Jumping Frog Jubilee.

The northerner, entered by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, arrived at this mother lode town in the Sierra foothills yesterday in a special container. The frog is named Miss Assignment.

But bewhiskered members of the entry committee suspect the female designation is a crafty effort to generate overconfidence among other entries.

Alongside Adam Baum, the North Carolina champion, the Canadian hopeful looks like a heavyweight. Adam Baum, owned by Orville Baum of Kitty Hawk, arrived from Washington, D.C., where he put on a special exhibition.

More than 500 frogs are expected.

Need for Enterprise

ALL things considered, British Columbia has no good reason to be despondent over its opportunities in trade and industry for the balance of the current year. While it may require more effort to find export markets and greater economy to serve them on the competitive basis, the diversification of British Columbia operations is such that the gaps may be bridged in the sum total. The basic industries, it is true, have not entered a feather-bedding period. Sawn lumber markets are disrupted, the value of base metals is lower, while a high Canadian dollar bears hard on all export movement.

Notwithstanding that there is room for reasonable confidence in the general outlook. Major construction in B.C. continues at a considerable pace. Some forest products, notably pulp and newsprint, remain in consistent demand. There is no reason to believe that British Columbia's fruit and fish production will not find their way to market in reasonable volume. Secondary manufacturers are on the increase, and insofar as the domestic market is concerned it is likely to remain brisk. The influx of new settlement into Canada, and to the Pacific region in consequence, is being maintained. Each new homestead means some increase in demand on the home market.

It is on the export market that B.C shippers this year may need to make their supreme effort. The exportable surpluses from the province, however, include many of the basic staples of modern industry. Lumber, metals and primary products serve a wide range of purposes in structural and other active fields. British Columbia has the volume and the quality of product for export that will always command attention. This is a year, perhaps, in which trade missions afield should be stepped up and made more demonstrative. It requires effort to sell in competition with the world. But that effort is worth making, and in the process new markets may be found to strengthen overseas and other demand.

The exchange factor is more obdurate. There is little that B.C. shippers can do to remove their current disabilities in that regard. Canada is running a heavy overall trade deficit, receiving a considerable inflow of investment funds per contra from outside, and has been directly hit by higher charter rates in seaborne trade. For the primary shipper, it is costing more to get to an export market, with stiffer competition there. Meanwhile the relatively high cost of Canadian currency is putting its percentage additions on the selling end. Yet from the diversity of its efforts British Columbia should be able to strike a reasonable balance this year between some advantages in hand, and the drawbacks that are beyond its control. It may take enterprise, but this province has seldom been lacking in that.

When in Rome . . .

A VISITING radio commentator is quoted as saying it is unfair that tourists should have to pay the current 5 per cent sales tax on purchases. Why should it be? Tourists anywhere are presumed to fall in line with the laws, habits and policies of the places they visit. As well say that tourists should be exempt from all traffic regulations, or for that matter any other impost unfamiliar in their own provinces or countries. When Canadians visit certain states across the line, for example, they pay whatever sales taxes are in vogue there. And without protest.

It is no argument either to say that tourists contribute valuable revenue to B.C. and shouldn't have to help keep up the provincial hospital insurance scheme. Supposedly tourists receive valuable returns from their stay here else they wouldn't come. There is a quid pro quo and it is not necessarily to be computed in monetary terms. As far as that goes it can scarcely be a visitor's privilege to determine where B.C.'s tax dollars go, or imply opposition to its welfare measures because this province sub-divides its tax revenues as it sees fit. The commentator is surely confused in his comment.

Even if the province did extend unusual benevolence to the tourists the result would probably be more irritating than the tax. Each visitor would have to come armed with bona fide documents to prove he was a visitor and go through the kind of identification test a stranger does in a bank when cashing a cheque. One doubts this would be a palatable performance when repeated perhaps a dozen times a day in downtown stores. Its absence also would invite wholesale evasion of the tax by others.

It is not likely that the objection to the provincial sales tax comes strongly from visitors to Victoria themselves. Most of them are well acquainted with the virtue contained in the maxim that when in Rome one should do as the Romans do.

A Job Well Done

PHYSICIANS, nurses and hospitals co-operating in the drive against polio in Victoria, and who between them are expected to immunize not less than 15,000 adult citizens in the course of the undertaking, are entitled to the warm thanks of the community. The proposals were voluntarily made, exceptionally well organized and are proving extremely effective in community-wide results. Concluding appointments were being put through yesterday, with almost 100 per cent response from citizens who had come forward to take advantage of this fine service. All professional services were given without fee, leaving the cost of the vaccine as the only outlay on the part of those who benefitted.

In the wider field, the incidence of polio seems to have lessened throughout Canada in the first four months of this year. There has been little here. What evidence there is on the matter suggests that the disease may in some fashion be cyclical. Fewer cases were recorded in Canada last year than in the 12 months before that, and the first quarter of this year has seen the continuation of that decline. Notwithstanding that, prevention where it can be achieved is worth all of the serious attention that can be given to it. By their example in Victoria the doctors have given a noteworthy lead to the nation in the wisdom of continuing precautions.

Canada is much better prepared now than it was two years ago to meet a threat of polio, while evidence is accumulating to suggest that the vaccine has played an outstanding part in that. It may be some time before polio can be eradicated, or lessened to the point where it may no longer constitute a threat to public health. Meanwhile we should be prepared for cyclical recurrences. Children and adults who have been immunized under clinical safeguards and supervision will have that much less to worry about. For those who have not taken this step, immunization is certainly worth considering. On test it has lessened the risk of irremediable consequences for scores of individuals who became exposed to contact with the disease. As a control medium, the vaccine has proved its worth.

Party Schisms Cause of Fall

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE current Italian cabinet crisis can be traced in part to such diverse things as Josef Stalin's brutality and the Hungarian revolution.

The direct cause in the fall of the coalition government dominated by Premier Antonio Segni and his Christian Democrats was the walkout by Giuseppe Saragat and his Social Democrat followers.

This was seen as purely political and long-range manoeuvring, spurred by far-left Socialists. Italy is not faced at present with any acute economic crisis such as is often the cause of a government's downfall.

Despite considerable unemployment—some 2,000,000 persons in a working force of 22,000,000—much evidence of prosperity is seen in the sale of motor cars, refrigerators and television sets. Until 10 years ago cars were a luxury and refrigerators a dream.

* * *

Politically Italy appears in a state of flux, her splinter parties and uneasy coalitions resulting in shaky government similar to France.

Segni's Christian Democrats won 262 of 590 seats in the 1953 elections and were able to retain the dominant role in the coalition for 22 months only through the co-operation of Saragat's Social Democrats, along with the Republican and Liberal parties. Monarchists opposed the 66-year-old professor-premier on the right, while important left-wing opposition was provided by Socialists under Pietro Nenni, and the Communists.

This was the situation last year when Russian party boss Khrushchev attacked the crimes of Stalin, whose words hitherto had been venerated as gospel by Communists and far-left Socialists.

* * *

The brutal Russian repression of the Hungarian revolution also caused grave soul-searching among many left-wing Italians who had regarded the Soviet Union as their "spiritual" leader.

Nenni, the leader of Italy's far-left Socialists, announced he wanted to break ties with the Communists and ally himself instead with the right-wing Socialists led by Saragat.

Observers believe this internal struggle for power was a factor in causing Saragat, vice-premier in the Segni administration to quit the coalition. By so doing he stole Matteotti's thunder and regained his waning influence.

"Don't worry. I don't think there's anything in there"

Perfect Day

By FRANK KELLEY

THAT is what Sunday, May 5, seemed to be in the considered opinion of two young fellows possessing a persistent idea that Vancouver Island generally appears in a class by itelf when measured by the liveable amenities associated with the passing of the seasons, year by year. This was very noticeable, particularly, in this favored section of the Island's most populated area on the date mentioned.

Taking for granted what Nature has so lavishly bestowed hereabouts from the beginning of things, and having marked the unfolding of progress as visioned by the pioneers for some time, one could hardly be anything but surprised at the transformation the planners of pleasing changes have wrought along what must always be considered one of Greater Victoria's top attractions — the marine drive along the waterfront from Ogden Point on a day fashioned for motoring enjoyment.

* * *

To state that the changes being undertaken caused some pleasant mental and vocal comments is still an understatement. The only way to appreciate that is to get acquainted with what has been accomplished during recent months by spending a few hours along the waterfront when the Strait is placid, and take advantage of the lookouts now available, from which one obtains dreamy glimpses of another compelling eye-picture reserved for Victorians and tourist patrons—the majestic Olympics.

Anticipations of anything so startling as the drive revealed had no place whatever in this persons's "think-tank" when Eric Marshall, who has a real weakness for Victoria's pleasant surroundings, invited me to spend a day in his company, something difficult to resist, as he can be the happy host in both motor car and sitting room.

* * *

Greater Victoria is fortunate in being the capital city of British Columbia; and the Capital City planning set-up is certainly entitled to congratulations over the renovation of the foreshore areas of the drive from Holland Point, across the sea-facing front of Beacon Hill, where considerable landscaping has assured enjoyable motoring; for it includes a road strip onto Clover Point from which wide expanses of Juan de Fuca Strait can fill the eyes; and from which we happened to witness a typical marine picture when three Canadian Pacific "Princesses" appeared about the same time—one headed for Port Angeles, another bound for Vancouver and the third homing from the Mainland port to Victoria, all exhibiting graceful lines as they curtsied to the windless tide.

One gathered as Ross and Gonzales beauty spots were skirted, Harling Point rounded and McNeill Bay left behind, that a continuity of effort was underway to achieve a seafront drive that would add considerably to the reputation gained by the whole area since the horse and buggy days folded. This thought persisted as we passed through the well-cared-for golf club grounds, when we turned aside in the vicinity of Windsor Park, along the roadside of which many motor cars were parked while their owners were evidently watching and enjoying a little reminder of Old England—yes, a game of cricket, which we also followed for a spell as well as listening to the more articulate accompaniment of spectators taking part in a bit of baseball presented in another part of the park.

Reports from Ottawa

THE greatest Tory of them all came back to Parliament Hill smack dab in the middle of the election campaign. And nobody recognized him.

Prime Minister Sir John A. Macdonald—or at least more than a reasonable facsimile thereof—got out of a car the other afternoon and walked into the Parliament Building as if he owned the place. And in his day, he pretty near did.

"Macdonald" climbed the great marble staircase leading to Confederation Hall, while nearly a hundred visitors and tourists eyed his century-old dress: uncreased trousers, frock coat, stand-up shirt collar, Ascot-type tie and plug hat.

"Who's the square in the old clothes?" a crew-cut kid asked a gum-chewing girl in jeans. She shrugged. "Some creep outa the woodwork, I guess."

Two middle-aged school teachers spotted Sir John A. as he stopped at the central column and read the inscribed dedication of the Parliament Building to the Fathers of Confederation—foremost among whom was Macdonald.

"Look, Mabel," one of them squealed. "Abraham Lincoln!"

* * *

I followed TV actor Robert Christie into the Commons chamber and interviewed him for half an hour while cameras clicked to record, for the titillation of Sunday supplement readers, the return of the Old Chieftain to his former haunts. Christie had also been photographed at Earnscliffe, Sir John's old home, which is now the home of "Sir Joe" Garner, the British high commissioner. Christie also posed in Macdonald's old East Block office—now occupied by Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson—and in the cabinet meeting room.

"You're probably the most experienced Sir John A. now extant," I hazarded. Christie agreed.

"I've done Macdonald eight times," he said. "First in 1946, in a play about Riel. And most recently on TV in February."

He broke off, on cue from the photographer, to intone sepulchrally, "The wheel has turned, and we are as a fly upon that wheel." Strobe lights flashed, and again when Christie lifted a glass of water to his lips. There were two glasses on the desk. In the Macdonald tradition, both were supposed to contain gin.

"Are you a better Macdonald as a result of reading about him, and learning more about the kind of man he was?" I asked.

"Well, I read a good deal about him. But the most important thing is that I have a feeling for him. Within the limits of what the author has written, I try to present the man I feel Macdonald was. A lonely man, from the start to the finish. A man who channeled his psychological needs into a driving ambition."

That day Christie was the middle-aged Macdonald of 1867, curly hair still brown and plentiful. He struck a daguerreotype-like pose and the strobes flashed again.

"How do you know you talk like Macdonald?"

"I don't know for sure. But I gie some words a bit of a Scots twist because I think he did too. He was a Hielan' man. He came to Canada as a boy, of course, but he went to a school where all the boys were sons of Scots, and when he was articled to the law, his employers were Scots."

Another cue. Sir John threw back his head and laughed loudly and, it must be confessed, somewhat tipsily. A tourist at the far end of the chamber tittered. Sir John turned a chilly eye on her.

"I tell you, Tupper," the Old Chieftain cried, "these damned Liberals take too many liberties!"

Rude Interruption

By GREGORY CLARK

THE greatest reproach to the advertising profession are those commercials on TV at the conclusion of a beautiful and moving program. There was a magnificently-staged and directed hour-long drama the other night which moved to its climax with a beauty that fairly had the viewer spellbound. I venture to say that all over the continent, there was a stillness in a million homes that is the highest tribute to the dramatic art.

In a hush, the final scene ended. Curtain.

And before those bewitched viewers could draw a breath, there whanged onto the quiet screen a loud, brash, pitch-man type of announcer, the kind you see at all fall fairs demonstrating paring knives. The contrast with the beauty and stillness of what had just preceded the announcement was shocking. The goods he was selling were the product of one of the greatest American industries. But I think all eyes in those millions of homes must have turned away instantly, in a kind of agony. A slap in the face could not have been more disconcerting.

Now, we realize that the production of the drama cost a vast amount of money for the actors, staging, direction and TV time on hundreds of stations. And it is understandable that, from the advertising point of view, the sponsors of the show expect some return for their money.

In a great many TV shows it does not matter if a paring knife pitchman comes brassily on the air right on the heels of a comedy or a spectacular. It is expected. But there are other shows such as the drama mentioned above in which it must be surely the stupidest kind of advertising to smash in, on an aesthetic mood inspired in the audience, with a side-show spieler.

It is most improbable that the advertising profession, filled with shrewd, intelligent men, is unaware of this garish and offensive contrast between sheer beauty and sheer tripe. It is unthinkable that they are not capable of solving the problem. It could be that the stupidity involved is in the high brass of the sponsors, and the advertising profession is unable to persuade them to a more sensible technique.

In any case, it is a reproach to the advertising profession. They have failed to put over a "hard sell" on their own employers.

City Notebook

It Could Happen Here

By ORMOND MARRION

WITH apologies to readers who don't watch television, or who do watch television but don't like cops-and-robbers shows, we now present a possible Dragnette, Victoria-style, some time this summer. Peculiar spelling, but that other word may be copyrighted. And this is Victoria, after all, with its shoppes.

Ladies and gentlemen, the story you are about to see is true (It isn't really). The names have been changed to protect the innocent.

This is the city—Victoria, B.C.

* * *

I work here. I'm a cop.

It was Tuesday, July 16. It was hot in Victoria. There was a breeze blowing off the strait. But it was hot.

We were working night shift. We're in Shoppes Closing and Weekly Half-Holiday Division. I work with Fred Noodlestrom. I'm Sgt. Wensday.

Earlier that day, we had been informed by a reliable informant that someone was pushing canned corn beef in the Fairfield district after 6 p.m. That is in contravention of Sections 866 and 867 of the new Municipal Act. Has been since July 1.

Our business was to stop it.

We drove to an address our informant gave us. We waited outside. Nothing happened.

"You want to go in, Wensday?"

"Give it a few more minutes."

"Is Filch sure about this?"

"Swears this guy's selling canned corn beef after 6 p.m. like he had a licence. Some wieners, too."

"Hold it a minute! Someone's coming out. Package under his arm. Let's go."

"All right, mister, just stand still and let's see that package. We're cops. Victoria Police Department. Frisk him, Fred."

* * *

Well, that's the way it goes. Nothing in the package but two big grapefruits and a loaf of bread, permissible under the Shoppes Closing Exemption By-Law, 1957—fresh fruits and bakery products.

We let the man go. Fred told him he was sorry he had dropped the bread and tramped on it.

Fred and I returned to the car.

"How about going in there like we were customers, Fred?"

"Can't lose anything trying it. You talk. I'll look like I got a real sharp longing for some corned beef."

We went into the store. The man behind the counter was medium height, about five-nine, 145 pounds. Scar across the right cheek. Crafty sort of eyes.

"Say, mister, I invited my friend here up to supper. I don't have anything in the apartment. Forgot to shop today. What you selling we can eat?"

"Fresh fruits, fresh vegetables, soft drinks, dairy products, bakery products, cut flowers, forists' products and confectionery."

"How about some corned beef, and a small tin of peas?"

"Stranger, I said fresh fruits, fresh veg . . ."

"Now come off it, mister. You sell corned beef, don't you? In cases of emergency?"

"Say, who are you, anyway? What you want, coming busting into my nice quiet store, wanting this sort of stuff after 6? You want I should call the cops?"

* * *

We told the man to forget it.

On the way out, Fred picked up two bananas. He flipped the man a quarter. Said his wife wanted bananas for breakfast. Quarter was kind of a bit. Fred said we'd given the guy a rough time.

Going back to the car he turned his ankle. The bananas slipped out of his hand. One split open when it hit the sidewalk. It was hollow. There was a wiener in it.

We broke open the other one. There was a wiener in it.

We went back to the shop.

"We got to have something more than bananas to eat. How much your grapefruits?"

"Fifty-seven cents."

"A dozen?"

"Each."

He didn't think we'd take one. We did. Fred bust it open. There was a can of corned beef inside.

"Okay, mister. We're cops. Victoria Police Department. You're coming to the station."

"Who's going to take care of my shop?"

"You should of thought of that before you got mixed up in this sort of thing."

"How did you find out about it?"

"Inside information, that's all. Inside information."

Snivelly Skintz, alias Friendly Skintz, Your Corner Grocer, was booked on a charge of contravening Sections 866 and 867 of the Municipal Act. Trial was held in Victoria Police Court. In a moment, results of that trial.

* * *

The prisoner was found not guilty of contravening Sections 866 and 867 of the Municipal Act. He was set free. The court ruled that the Victoria Shoppe Closing Exemption By-Law permitted the sale of fresh fruits after 6 p.m. and did not purport to restrict or define the contents of fresh fruit, nor to regulate prices.

Letters to the Editor

Cult of the Ugly

Congratulations to your correspondents who outspokenly condemned the "Thing" with which it is proposed to desecrate the grounds of the Legislative Buildings.

This cult of the ugly is not confined to sculpture. Out of 82 works forming the recent jury show at the Art Gallery, 70 typified so-called "modernism." Conventional works were [illegible] "merely imitations of nature." As a protest against this drivel in paint I turned in my membership card, although I had a painting hung in the show.

Music, as rendered in cacophonous disharmony over most radio stations, seems to be infected, too. Actually all this sort of distortion is not modern at all. It is typical of primitive man and is centuries old. Only primitive man did it better. Beauty and serenity have become outmoded.

Can there be any connection between this pursuit of distortion and the frightening statistics which show a tremendous upsurge in mental hospital admissions?

The Political Parade

The parade of the politically paralyzed wends its laborious way—Vancouver and "all points west"—C. D. Howe, Lester Pearson, Ralph Campney, and old Uncle Louis.

Of Uncle Louis and his "kiddie-cuddling campaign"—surely he is playing a little too much on the "St." (Saint) instead of concentrating more earnestly on the powers and principles of Louis Laurent!

Of "run with the hare and hunt with the hounds" Lester Pearson—unfortunately the gentleman failed to convince us that he is prepared to uphold the six UN principles regarding the operation of the Suez Canal.

Of "benevolent and hands-in-pockets" Ralph Campney—one can perhaps question whether his relaxed attitude while the anthem is being sung is an example of his nationalism and basic acknowledgement of the Crown.

Of "pipeline and—Howe!" This gentleman finds great amusement in the headache the pipeline gave him last year—many of us also have a pain over the handling of such business and it is several degrees below the head!

Social Credit leader Solon Low tickles the issue of "the telegram." Surely he does not believe he can reverse convictions of the Social Credit Party when they and the CCF supported the Liberals in a vote of confidence in the government's foreign policy.

We need a real house-cleaning in Ottawa—we need a government with the courage to stand rigidly on its feet and declare itself for Canada and Canadians, not one that is nodding to Nasser, dancing for Dulles, and preaching one thing while practising another.

Dance Round-Up

The Vancouver Island Western Square Dance Association wishes to thank all those interested supporters of square dancing who attended in such unprecedented numbers the annual spring round-up at Central Junior High School.

To those spectators who were unable to obtain seating accommodation we offer our sincere apologies and hope they will understand that the rapidly growing interest in square dancing will lead to more space and a larger hall for next years round-up.

May we remind all those interested of the demonstration of square and round dancing in connection with May Day celebrations at the Arena on May 18, at 7 p.m., where there will be no shortage of accommodation.

Power Mowers

Regarding the news items on accidents with power mowers; we felt that the article was not entirely clear. It leaves the impression that all power mowers are dangerous. Investigation would show that almost all the accidents are caused by rotary blade type power mowers.

Accidents with the conventional reel-type power mowers are extremely rare and this is one of the reasons that we, as lawnmower repair men, generally recommend the reel-type power mowers over the rotary type.

Philip Talks to Millions

LONDON (Reuters)—Prince Philip took millions of British children and their parents 40,000 miles around the world Friday night in a television peep at the British Commonwealth, whose people he declared "stick together not by force, but because we all like each other."

The 35-year-old prince, the first member of the Royal Family to present a studio television program, spoke to the children of Britain for 56 minutes in an illustrated lecture of a four-month Commonwealth tour he made last winter.

Tele-recordings of Philip's lecture will be flown today to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and the Australian Broadcasting Commission.

His lecture was prepared specially for the young and delivered on the children's television programs of the BBC and the commercial network.

Philip spent about eight hours rehearsing before the studio lights winked on and he flashed onto about 7,000,000 television screens, seated at a desk on which stood a scale model of the royal yacht, Britannia, in which he travelled for much of his journey last year.

A slight touch of pancake makeup on his forehead was the only concession the prince made to television's glaring banks of lights.

He worked from a series of notes on his desk, and wandered round the studio as he spoke, showing viewers the gifts he had collected on his tour and pointing out the places he had visited on a wall map and a globe.

He recalled the story of convicts in New Guinea who liked prison so much—they get three square meals a day"—that when they were released during the war to fight the Japanese and told to report back after it was over, did just that—five years later. Not one failed to turn up.

When a chart, showing the weight and size of various parts and species of whale was shown, he grinned and said: "think how awful it would be to wake up in the morning with that weight of liver. And as for three tons of tongue to look at—how awful."

Read Bible with Adult Mind

(This is another in a series of articles by Greater Victoria clergymen appearing weekly on The Daily Colonist church page.)

By REV. JOHN F. PAGE

St. John's Anglican Church, Colwood, and St. Matthew's Anglican Church, Langford.

REV. JOHN F. PAGE
. . . Know where you're going"

Stop! Look! Listen!

Do you know where you are going? Or don't you care? That is the surest and quickest way to disaster on the road. What is your book of rules of the road? Or have you long ago made up your mind that there isn't one, because the only one you've ever heard of is out of date?

There is a book of rules of the road, and that book is the Bible.

"Oh," you say, "I thought that had been proved to be all lies."

There have been many lies floating around since the beginning of time; but none bigger than that one, that the Bible is out of date and has been proved to be all lies.

The Bible is the greatest authority the world has ever possessed on human nature. There in its pages is reflected in perfect image very known variety of human character, from the holiest saint to the most God-defiant sinner.

Why not read it with an adult mind? The tragedy is that so many men and women have not opened a Bible since they left Sunday school at the age of 11-plus. They condemn what they have never read. But read it in a modern version such as the Revised Standard Version, and let your eyes be opened.

This is the book which tells the story of the gallows and the empty tomb; of how humanity executed on a Roman gallows the prince of law, the only Innocent Man the world has ever seen; of how God raised Him from the dead and He was seen alive after He had been dead and buried, to the truth of which the church is the ever living witness.

Is it all just a gigantic hoax?

Some hoax!

Political Roundup

Let's Trade With China Says Pearson

PENTICTON (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson Thursday night advocated trade with Communist China as a weapon against Communism.

"Diplomatic recognition is one thing but sale of Canadian products abroad is another," he said. One way to fight communism was to sell Asian countries food and non-strategic materials, thereby bringing Asian peoples closer to the West.

"The whole of Asia has awakened and is on the march," he warned his Penticton audience "and if we don't show them sympathy and understanding they may march the wrong way. We had better get as close as we can to the masses of Asia."

He later told reporters there has been no negotiations for wheat sales between Canada and Communist China, although Canada sells China non-strategic materials such as fertilizer and newsprint.

Happy to Sell

WEYBURN, Sask. (CP) — Trade Minister Howe says Canada would be happy to sell wheat to Red China in return for gold or dollars.

"We would be tickled to death to sell the Chinese as much wheat as they are prepared to pay for," he said Thursday night. "We would do it tomorrow."

On a Pension

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — Highways Minister P. A. Gagiardi of British Columbia Thursday night described the federal government as a group of ancient men who should be allowed to retire on the recently-increased old age pension.

"They have extended the old age pension by $6," he said. "We should pension them off and let them live on $46 a month."

Farm Attack

KIPLING, Sask. (CP) — John Diefenbaker moved into his home province of Saskatchewan Friday with a renewed attack on the government's agricultural policies and a reiteration of the Progressive-Conservative platform plank of flexible farm price supports.

The farmer is receiving less and less in purchasing power as the years go on, the Progressive Conservative leader said.

Tax 'Deal'

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent suggested Friday that Premier Frost is backing John Diefenbaker because he hopes to get a better tax deal for Ontario if the national Progressive Conservative leader is voted into power June 10.

He challenged Mr. Diefenbaker to say just how he would accomplish this, arguing that there are only two ways in which it could be done—either by raising federal taxes to increase federal payments to all provinces or by giving Ontario a bigger share of the tax pot to the detriment of other provinces.

UN Session

TORONTO (BUP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent should take immediate steps to promote a special session of the United Nations General Assembly with a view to stopping nuclear test explosions by Russia, the United States and Britain, CCF leader M. J. Coldwell said last night in a radio broadcast.

Such a special UN session should also "take the appropriate steps to deal with any nations that continue to jeopardize the world" by exploding H-bombs, Mr. Coldwell said. Scientists agree, he added, that when a certain level of radioactivity is reached "human health both now and in the future is endangered."

"We are nearing that level," he said.

U.S. Film Gets Palm

CANNES, France (UP) — The Hollywood movie "Friendly Persuasion," which received mixed reaction from critics here, won the Grand Prix of the 10th Annual Cannes Film Festival yesterday.

The coveted gold palm went to the film directed by William Wyler and starring Gary Cooper and Dorothy McGuire, although many critics said it was below Hollywood standards.

It was the second U.S. movie to win the top award in three years. "Marty" won it in 1956, and a French documentary, "The Silent World," took top honors last year.

"Kanal," a Polish film of the Warsaw uprising against the Germans in 1944, and Sweden's "The Seventh Seal."

The 11-man jury was unanimous in all its selections except for "Friendly Persuasion."

French critics had panned "Friendly Persuasion" by presenting a mock award for acting to a goose named Samantha, which played a part in the movie. They called the goose "the most sympathetic and dynamic actor of the movie."

Strong Pennant Contenders

Chisox, Reds Stretch Leads; Groggy Yanks Lose to Tigers

Chicago White Sox and Cincinnati Reds both opened up game-and-a-half leads yesterday as they continued to look like serious pennant contenders in the American and National Leagues respectively.

Still not getting much in the way of offense, the White Sox kept on winning with their combination of speed, defence and pitching as they edged by Baltimore Orioles, 3-2.

They had trouble with southpaw Art Ceccarelli, recalled only recently from Vancouver Mounties, but made their six hits count in the late innings. Scoreless until the seventh, the Sox won it on Minnie Minoso's eighth-inning double, which plated the tying and winning runs.

It was the fifth straight defeat for the Baltimore Orioles, who had troubles of their own with Dick Donovan and his relief help, Paul LaPalme.

Meanwhile, Johnny Kucks, one of the Yankee playboys who hit the headlines during a Wednesday night celebration of Billy Martin's 29th birthday, didn't get by the third inning as Detroit Tigers knocked off the champs, 4-1.

It was all over in the third inning, when Charlie Maxwell, Bill Tuttle and Al Kaline hit successive home runs to give Billy Hoeft all the runs he needed.

BERRA IN SLUMP

Art Ditmar and Ralph Terry stopped the Tigers effectively from there but the Yanks could do nothing with Hoeft. Yogi Berra, another Wednesday celebrant, went hitless and his batting average dropped to a blushing .192.

Cleveland Indians, rolling along without Herb Score, pulled into a second-place tie with the Yanks by hesting Washington Senators, 3-1, behind the five-hit pitching of Bud Daley, who was recalled from San Diego to take Score's place.

Cincinnati's rampaging Reds made it 15 out of 16 as they rolled over the New York Giants, 11-4, with a concentrated late-inning attack. Sophomore Frank Robinson batted in four runs with his fifth and sixth home runs.

ROBERTS WINS

In the other National League game played, Philadelphia Phillies downed St. Louis Cardinals 5-3, with Robin Roberts gaining his third win although he continued to toss up home run pitches.

Resignation of Fred Madden as secretary-manager of the Victoria Curling Club has been accepted "with regret" it was announced yesterday by club-president Dr. Kirby Moysey. Decision was made at a meeting of club directors earlier this week. Mr. Madden came to the Victoria club in October, 1954, from Penticton. No decision has yet been made on the appointment of a successor.

No Change in Hockey Picture; Cougar Action Only Formality

By JIM TANG

Victoria Cougars are no longer officially part of the Western Hockey League but the hockey situation in Victoria is exactly the same as it was before the annual league meeting, which concluded at Vancouver yesterday afternoon.

In brief, the decision to carry on in Victoria, made last month at a meeting of Western Division clubs, will be carried out if at all possible.

Withdrawal of the Victoria Hockey Club Ltd. from league operations announced yesterday, was the natural course of action after the majority stockholders turned their stock back to the club and is intended only as a temporary expedient.

"Their withdrawal was a formality because of the removal of the financial backing of majority stockholders," league-president Al Leader said after the meeting. "They should be back with new stockholders."

Decision of Lester Patrick, who controlled 50 per cent of the stock, and Mrs. Nellie Hutchinson, owner of 26 per cent, to turn their stock back to the club meant, in effect, that the majority of the stockholders wanted to liquidate their assets.

Among the assets was the $7,500 bond which is posted by each club with the league. The only way it could be returned to the club was for the Victoria club to withdraw from the league. The money has to be used to take care of any club losses and inasmuch as the Cougars lost in the neighborhood of $28,000 last season there is not likely to be any of the bond money left for stockholders.

Withdrawal, therefore, cleared the way for a reorganization of the Victoria club and the franchise will be returned to the city as soon as a new group can post the $7,500 bond and give reasonable assurance that it will be able to carry on.

WANT TO CONTINUE

Decision to carry on if there was evidence of support was, as noted, made last month by the group of city business and professional men who purchased a minority interest in the Victoria Hockey Club in 1955.

That Victoria will give assurance of support is being anticipated by Mr. Leader.

"I've always considered Victoria one of the best hockey towns in our league," he said last night following the completion of the annual meeting.

"I know you have encountered a bit of a slump over there but I feel certain that hockey will soon regain its former popularity."

In any event, Mr. Leader will start working on next season's schedule immediately. It will be for the eight teams which played the past season—Calgary, Edmonton, Winnipeg and Brandon in the Eastern Division and Vancouver, New Westminster, Seattle and Victoria in the Western Division.

That does not necessarily mean that Victoria will be included, as definite indications of lack of support would force the group planning to carry on to call it quits. It does, however, indicate that it feels that it will be able to carry on as planned.

DIVIDE SCHEDULE

As for Brandon, the only doubt is where the club will play its games. The Regals could wind up in Saskatoon or they could split their schedule between Saskatoon and Brandon. At the moment, the club is selling season's tickets for 15 games in both cities, will decide on the other five games at a later date.

The possibility exists, too, that owner Jim Pigott will decide to play all of his games in one city, his decision depending on the support given in the sale of season tickets.

Several important decisions were made at the meeting, including the decision to play an all-star game and another to set up a player's benefit fund.

The all-star game will be between picked teams from the Eastern and Western Divisions and the first one will probably be played in January at Calgary. All proceeds will go to the benefit fund.

HELP INJURED

It was also decided that approximately $9,000 collected in fines during the nine seasons of league operation will be turned over to the benefit fund, which will be used to help defray expenses of players who receive serious injuries. In addition to all-star game receipts, all fines collected in the future will go into the fund.

First beneficiary of the fund will be Pete Durham, who was a contributor more than once.

It was also decided that each club would make only one inter-divisional trip next season, that a 70-game schedule would be played, and that two linesmen will be used.

No definite decision was made on next season's player limit but it was decided to continue the two-rookie rule.

Speaking Briefly

Score's Chances Improving; Classic a Two-Horse Race?

Hopes that Herb Score's right eye was not permanently injured when he was struck in the face by a line drive last week brightened yesterday when doctors were able to announce that the retina is not torn or detached.

They were unable to say definitely whether or not the injury will affect Score's vision but their first clear look into the injured eye was promising.

Score's eye is still badly swollen and it is possible that there may be injury to the deeper layers of the retina but the fears about the possibility of a torn or detached retina have been alleviated.

"I think it is favorable," Dr. Charles I. Thomas said yesterday. "But I must be reserved about my statement. I don't know how he will respond to treatment, which might extend over several weeks."

Seven names are officially in the entry box for today's running of the $100,000-added Preakness Stakes but it still looks like a two-horse race between Kentucky Derby winner Iron Liege and the beaten favorite, Bold Ruler.

Iron Liege may go to the post an odds-on choice but there will be plenty of support for Bold Ruler. The Preakness is one-sixteenth of a mile shorter, and it may be enough of a difference for the result to be reversed.

Speedster Federal Hill, who led for more than a mile in the Kentucky Derby; Promised Land, Inswept, Nah Hiss and Inside Tract are the other starters. Only Federal Hill is given any kind of a chance to beat the top-rated pair.

Hogan, Snead Stand Up In Par-Wrecking Meet

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va.—Paul Harney and Bill Casper, two of professional golf's better young prospects, must be wondering what they have to do to stay ahead of two of the game's more-grizzled campaigners.

After two rounds of the Sam Snead Festival Tournament, Harney was eight under par with rounds of 63 and 96 and Casper was seven under par with his 66-67. But Harney had nothing better than a second-place tie and Casper was fourth.

THEY WERE HOT

Out in front was none other than Ben Hogan, who shot a blazing 66 to go with his first day's 65 for a 36-hole total of 131. Tied with Harney was the old fellow the tournament honors, Sam Snead himself. The host pro also fired a 66, matching his first round.

Casper, however, would have been ahead except for a run of bad luck. He had two penalty strokes Thursday when scoring a 66 and took another penalty stroke yesterday when his ball took a flukey bounce in to a creek.

In fifth place with 134 after shooting one of the day's two 65s was Pat Schwab of Dayton, Ohio. He was one stroke ahead of Australia's Peter Thomson, who added a 66 to his opening 69.

Thomson played in a threesome with Snead and Hogan and the large gallery which followed them had plenty to talk about, the trio knocking a combined total of 13 strokes off par figures.

Hogan carried a sizzling putter to get his five birdies and 13 pars. It was exactly the opposite for Snead, who would have had at least a 62 had he been able to sink his short ones. Slamming Sam muffed putts of three feet or less on the ninth, 10th, 11th and 15th holes. His 66 in face of that kind of putting was on the marvelous side.

Another veteran, Dutch Harrison, moved up with the leaders with a redhot 65, which included a 29 on the first nine holes, when he had five birdies and four par holes.

No Decision Yet On Sunday Games

Whether or not Vancouver Mounties will be permitted to continue playing Sunday baseball without being prosecuted remained in doubt yesterday.

Vancouver city prosecutor Stewart McMorran denied last night that he had said that he doubted that there would be any action taken. At the same time, he didn't indicate he planned to take action.

"There is no foundation for anyone to consider that Sunday baseball has been given a green light," McMorran said last night. "At the same time, this does not mean prosecution is certain. I do not know what will occur. I have certain instructions and I'm going to carry them out."

LEFT TO VANCOUVER

The matter was left up to Vancouver on Thursday when Attorney-General Robert Bonner declined to prosecute on the provincial level but cleared the way for any action by issuing a fiat to McMorran.

In the meantime, the Mounties are going ahead with plans for a Coast Baseball League doubleheader on Sunday, June 2.

Last night, the Mounties had their four-game win streak snapped when John Gray two-hitted them to give San Diego Padres a 1-0 win over Erv Palica.

Three City Swingers Qualify in B.C. Meet

VANCOUVER—Don Elford, Johnny Russell and Len Morgan, all from Vancouver clubs, tied for medal honors Friday in the 36-hole qualifying round of the annual B.C. amateur golf championships. They shot 146s.

Vince Clarkson, from Victoria's Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club, shot a 69 on the first round but slipped to an 80 on the second round. However, he was one of three Victoria golfers to qualify for the 32 places in the championship flight.

A score of 156 was good enough for the championship flight and two of Clarkson's clubmates, Vic Painter and Laurie Kerr, made it. Painter shot 78-73 for a 151 and Kerr had a 75-77 for 152.

Seven other Vancouver Island golfers, including former champion Bill McColl of Victoria and Gordie Whan of Duncan, failed to qualify.

Match play starts today and ends on Monday, when the successor to Spokane's Rod Funseth will be named. Funseth, who won last year at Victoria, is not defending.

Uraniums Return To Favor

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials and uraniums led the stock market to a moderately advanced trading day.

The industrial index, aided by a 27-point gain by Algoma Steel, climbed two points. Western oils rallied near the close to post a slim index gain.

Uranium gains ranged to 2½ cents among lower priced stocks, led by Can Met and Stanrich. Senior base metals were fractionally higher.

Western oils spurted ahead on the strength of a few outstanding winners. Canadian Devonian jumped 75 cents to $8.90 and Canada Southern Pete had a similar gain at $7.65. Pacific Pete was up ½ to 26¼. Home Oil B lost ⅛ to 22⅝ amid profit-taking.

Irregular Close

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges closed in an irregularly stronger tone Friday with industrial price movements ranging to more than a point.

Among base metals, Hudson Bay added 1¼ at 66¼ while International Nickel was up ⅛ at 34⅞. Pipe line issues were lower with Trans Mountain dropping ⅛ to 130 and Inter-Provincial Pipe Lines losing ½ at 50.

Among papers, Abitibi dropped ⅛ to 19¼ while Consolidated was up an equal fraction to 20 and B.C. Forest lost ⅛ at 10⅞. Mc Coll was high in pulping with gaining 1¼ at 78, while Canadian Celanese jumped 2¼ at 45 and Imperial was up ⅛ at 44. Among the utilities, Calgary Power added 1¼ at 37¼.

Steels Strengthen

NEW YORK (CP) — Activity in steels and strength in special issues featured a moderately active weekend on the stock market.

The market moved higher in the early trading until the industrials had reached a new high since last Sept. 7, rails since last Feb. 1 and utilities since Oct. 7, 1950.

Normal profit-taking and evening up operations reduced the gains, but left the list higher on balance.

Lukens Steel enjoyed a good market for a time and touched 103¾, up 4¼ points. It later lost most of the rise. It shared honors in top activity with Bethlehem Steel which held a fractional rise. U.S. Steel also active was up 1⅛ at its best. Crucible at one time was up a point and so was Youngstown Sheet & Tube.

Pacific Advances

VANCOUVER — Oils were led higher by Fort St. John at 8.40. United at 1.30 and Vantor at 2.53. Peace River advanced to 13.50 and Pacific Petroleum to a new high of 26¾.

Mines were not greatly changed although Quatsino firmed to 53 cents, and Cowichan to 1.49.

New High at London

LONDON (Reuters) — Gilt-edged securities showed widespread losses on selling but the London stock market as a whole was generally firm.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Commercial demand was thin and trading dull. Prices in most grains moved in narrow limits.

Best commercial interest was in flax, where exporters made a few purchases indicating a small overseas business was developing. Elevator hedges made up most of the offerings.

Oats and barley had routine trade. Export interest appeared in barley but there were no reports of overseas business in wheat.

Pipelines Move Again

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

After a few sessions in which the blue-chip industrials took over the market leadership, public interest swung sharply back to pipelines and oil and gas stocks, as the Canadian markets closed down for the long weekend.

Last week trading volume mounted and shares were at a new high, and Westcoast Transmission voting trust shares approached the half-century mark at $48.

Next week Trans-Canada units will be selling with only two instead of five common shares attached. Certificates for the other three shares are on the point of being mailed to holders.

From the United States, El Paso Natural Gas in a quarterly report to shareholders said the agreement with Westcoast Transmission, Canadian Husky Oil and Phillips Petroleum to participate in a new gas pipeline from southwest Alberta to the international border near Trail was an important step in the big American company's plan to use more Canadian gas.

El Paso said the new line, which would have an initial capacity of 150,000,000 cubic feet a day, was subject only to approval of the Canadian and U.S. governments.

* * *

MERGER RUMORED

Farther north, rumor is coupling West-Coast Transmission with the acquisition of Peace River Natural Gas, an affiliate of Pacific Pete, which is also a major holder in Westcoast. A few months ago a bid by Pacific to absorb Peace River was thwarted by income tax difficulties.

In eastern Canada, Northern Ontario Natural Gas is preparing a new unit financing of the current popular type. Northern Ontario is the company which will distribute Trans-Canada gas in the sparsely-populated area east of the Lakehead to Kapuskasing, north of Sault Ste. Marie.

* * *

SHIPPING RATES DROP

Apart from the actual pipelines, the oil market also moved strongly toward the week's close. B-A Oil and Imperial both made gains among the seniors, while Pacific Petroleum made a new high at more than $26.

In the industrials, good buying continued for Page Hersey and A. V. Roe Canada, while B.C. Power on completion of its years financing got back into its stride trading up to $48.

Papers, pulps and lumber stocks continue dull with slackening markets, and a strike in B.C. hanging over the industry.

It should be noted, however, that with the easing on shipping through the reopening of the Suez Canal, shipping freight rates have already dropped sharply from last December's peaks, and this may improve the B.C. shipments if not to the U.K., at least to the Atlantic seaboard.

BUSINESS SLACKENS

Business at Victoria Clearing House in the week ending May 16 totalled $10,568,425, compared with $12,139,183 in the corresponding week of 1956.

DIVIDEND FORECAST

Gunnar Mines Ltd. is expected to pay its first dividend early in 1958, according to Gilbert A. Labine, president.

Production in the first quarter of 1957 was $2,055,682 (62 cents a share).

This indicates that Gunnar may be the first Canadian company to place itself on a dividend basis.

Radiant, Happy And a Bit Upset

About 2,000 Victorians and visitors crowded onto the lawns of the legislative buildings last night to watch May Queen Sue Pearson crowned by Mayor Percy Scurrah.

Queen Sue, radiant, happy and upset by all the excitement, was attended by her two princesses, Grace Chew and Annlyn Florence. The three girls were chosen queen and princesses of the Jaycees' fair last week.

Joey Darlene King, 8, and Cheri Wong, 9, members of the Chinese Girls' Drill Team, carried Queen Sue's heavy velvet train.

The "royal" party arrived in the inner harbor about 7:30 p.m. with an escort of 11 speedboats and with the fireboat blasting six plumes of water 200 feet in the air.

Threatened showers held off right through the arrival of Queen Sue on the Mayor's barge from the [illegible] to the legislative building steps and the foot of Victoria [illegible] at the Crystal Garden.

Members of the Victoria Girls' Drill Team escorted Queen Sue from the steps at the inner harbor to the steps of the legislative buildings, where a guard of honor stood, formed of members of the Victoria Chapter of the Order of De Molay.

Four members of the RCMP [illegible] the steps and helped Queen Sue and her princesses down from their cars.

The 6th Independent Medical Battery Brass Band played in the harbor. Members of the Sons of [illegible] Regiment and the Queen's Own Rifles played a fanfare when Mayor Scurrah crowned Sue Pearson as May Queen.

A small procession moved from the legislative building, along Government, up Yates and back along Douglas to the Crystal Garden, where Esquimalt Lions' Club had arranged an aquatic display.

Later Queen Sue and her princesses left by [illegible] to rest in the Empress Hotel. She made an appearance at the dance held in the Crystal Garden after the aquatic display, by the courtesy of the Empress Hotel.

Fete Lures 1,100

Some 1,100 visitors, both from the rest of Canada and the United States, are expected to crowd into Victoria this weekend for the annual Victoria Day celebrations.

Cy Porter, assistant commissioner of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, said yesterday inquiries at his office about the weekend of celebrations had increased 10 per cent over last year, when more than 1,000 tourists came to the city.

He attributed the rise in part to the usual publicity for the celebrations, but also said publicity for the province's centenary next year had played its part.

Today, on the second day of celebrations, the main event will be the pageant at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Arena.

One of the highlights will be an exhibition of square dancing by some 300 dancers from 21 Vancouver Island clubs. Callers will be Dawn Draper and Norm Williams and music will be supplied by records.

The weather picture for today is not as pleasant as the celebrations planned. Widely scattered showers are forecast, with cloudy skies. Tomorrow's forecast is for variable cloudiness, but not showers.

Tomorrow will be one of the busiest days of the four-day celebrations with a motor boat regatta, a motorcycle rodeo and a band concert in the afternoon and a Welsh song festival and band concert in the evening.

Full details of the program for tomorrow and Monday will be published in tomorrow's Colonist.

City Jobless Total Up On Last Year's Figure

Number of jobless [illegible] dropped by 199 to 2,248 during the week, the local office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission reported last night.

This is not quite as good as last year and, approximately, this brings the average total of the last [illegible] years, J. H. Fox, union commission manager, stated.

Heaviest hiring was among truck drivers, he reported.

Also in demand were construction workers, specialized garage workers, younger sales clerks, hard rock miners and graduate engineers.

In the women's section applications for casualty and day cleaning workers increased, Mr. Fox stated.

Domestic help, waitresses, stenographers and experienced sales clerks are also needed, he said.

Loyal Subjects Nearly Steal Show

Four royal subjects almost stole the show from May Queen Sue Pearson last night at her coronation on the steps of the legislative buildings.

As Mayor Percy Scurrah crowned Queen Sue, three children wandered out of the sidelines, from behind Mr. Scurrah, and walked across the steps to get a better view from the other side.

Rosalind Ramage, 5, 438 Heather and Marie Adams, 4, 403 Heather settled themselves two steps below the May Queen and gazed up at her from the red carpet while Eddie Clifford, 5, 1[illegible] Heather stood to one side.

Later Eddie joined the two girls and his sister, Carol, 7, stood to one side.

The crowd of some 2,000 laughed at the casual way the children settled themselves down for the best view of Queen Sue.

Toward the end of the ceremony, it was decided it was time for Queen Sue to leave the [illegible] through the streets of Victoria a member of the RCMP guard and a member of the Legion of Frontiersmen gently removed the children.

Spokesmen for the youngsters, Carol Clifford gave two of the best reasons in the world for disregarding protocol. "We couldn't see very well," she said, and, "We like her."

What's Cooking!

By Frances Thompson

Expresses Objections To Monday Holidays

[illegible]

How would you feel if you went to England and they told you to switch to their way of cooking? . . . etcetera, etcetera.

Here's my answer, and please back me up, Mrs. C. W. of Victoria—it just so happens by the luck of the draw I was born and educated in England and I to this day am extremely proud of the fact. But when living in Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa we promptly adopted the recipes and cooking methods of the particular country in which we found ourselves. That is all I have to say. No, it isn't—there's one word more. Our English readers simply have to readjust. And if they can't do that, maybe they'd better go home.

[illegible]

A FOOL-PROOF POT ROAST

Three to 4-pound pot roast; [illegible] teaspoon salt, [illegible] teaspoon thyme. [illegible] gingersnaps [illegible] (Personally, I don't because I have yet to find [illegible] effect on food.)

Mix a mixture of the lemon juice and the other seven ingredients and pour over the pot roast. Cover tightly and slow cook overnight. (If you happen to be awake [illegible] turn it once.) In the morning remove the green. Brown meat well on all sides. Place on casserole and pour the mixture over the meat. Cover tightly and cook slowly [illegible] hours or less for roasts in half the period. The meat will not be juicy and one feels it is something in [illegible].

Following on the heels of this is a suggested weekend dessert.

APPLE SNOW

(Mrs. [illegible] Sechelt)

One tablespoon gelatine, [illegible] cup cold water, [illegible] cups apple sauce (either home-made or canned), [illegible] cup sugar, [illegible] teaspoon lemon juice, [illegible] teaspoon salt and [illegible] egg whites. [illegible] cinnamon, [illegible] teaspoon ginger. [illegible] Soak gelatine in cold water. Heat apple sauce and add seasoning and ginger. Add soaked gelatin and stir till it completely dissolves. Remove from heat and beat when it begins to thicken. Wash egg beaters and bowl well in hot water. Add salt and beat in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into one large mould, or little ones, rinsed with cold water and chill until firm. You can serve this a contrasting music from the egg yolks.

TRICK OF THE DAY

Plum Tree Check Due

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

This is the time of the year when it pays to give a little extra attention to the plum trees. If the bees got in their licks during the flowering period and the blossoms were properly pollinated, a bit of extra care now can make all the difference between an indifferent crop of undersized fruit and an enormous bearing of mouth-watering plums.

[illegible] and they tend to suffer severely if the trees are shaded or shadow ground [illegible] at the roots.

When grown against a wall plums are [illegible] a gentleman's walking every week throughout the summer for a week. There is a surprising degree of [illegible] from the wall and the soil at its foot is invariably much drier than out in the open.

Where plums are suffering from a [illegible] often developed symptoms very similar to the [illegible] Leaf [illegible] and [illegible] of the disease that [illegible] as they do [illegible] there is no cure for the real thing but there is a simple test which will indicate whether the silvering of the foliage is due to the infection or merely to maltreatment.

An affected branch is sawn through and a careful examination is made of the heart wood. If there is a brown stain running down through the centre of the branch, the tree is suffering from the true disease and all infected branches must be taken off piece by piece a foot or two [illegible] clean, unstained wood is reached. The cut end must be covered with tree emulsion or grafting wax. The pruning tools should be dipped in disinfectant between cuts.

In the case of the false silver leaf no stain is found in the wood and the trouble can be corrected by feeding the tree heavily with sulphate of ammonia, one cupful per square yard, applied evenly over the whole root run, which extends a couple of feet beyond the outermost spread of the branches, preferably with a lawn sprinkler. The variety Victoria is particularly susceptible to this false silver leaf [illegible] if the tree bore an exceptionally heavy crop the previous year.

If a [illegible] plum is [illegible] in its habit of growth, it [illegible] a good idea to [illegible] the tree by cutting [illegible] ing branches. Varieties of the Pipe and Czar [illegible] Monarch and Pond's Red.

On the other hand [illegible] Early Laxton, Early [illegible] Victoria and [illegible] strong-growing [illegible] carrying a heavy [illegible].

Well-rotted [illegible] prune back the plum [illegible] tips to stronger [illegible].

It is far safer [illegible] plum trees a [illegible] than to the Wonder. Why? Well, [illegible] there is always the danger that the open cuts will become infected with the spores of the true silver leaf [illegible] ease which [illegible] and fade [illegible] spores are [illegible] active [illegible] sap flowing from the [illegible] off any disease spores which may be alight on the cut surfaces.

One of the differences between rubber bridge and tournament bridge is illustrated by this deal played by Edgar Kaplan in this year's Life Masters' individual championship which he won. However excellent as the result seemed at the time, it did not turn out to be one of the deals that helped him to win the title.

West's bidding is open to considerable criticism. Instead of doubling four spades, he might have risked a four no-trump bid in the expectation of getting more by making five clubs or five hearts than he could by defeating four spades. However, East didn't leave the double in much to North's regret who felt it necessary to go to five spades in spite of having been doubled at four. This time the tone of West's double intimated East with extinction if he tampered with the contract again.

Well, West might have held declarer to just his contract if he had a periscope or a crystal ball to tell him to open the ace and another diamond. But he made the normal lead of a heart and South chalked up his doubled contract with an overtrick. One difference between rubber bridge and tournament bridge is that at rubber bridge this would have been worth 1,150 points. Honors count toward match point play and it was worth only 1,050. Another difference is that in rubber bridge the score would have been entered and that would have been that. But in the tournament South's 1,050 plus was worth only 2½ out of a possible 12 match points by comparison with what happened at all the other tables.

Almost everyone bid six clubs on the East-West hands. While this contract could have been defeated by double-dummy play, it certainly figured to come home and most North-South pairs preferred to "save" at six spades. Against the same king of hearts opening, the save turned out to be specularly successful. Six spades doubled and made, was worth 1,660 in match points. This was about three times as much as the value of the 1,050 points North-South scored at Kaplan's table.

'More Fluorine in Tea Than in Treated Water'

Little and ladies who drink [illegible] cups of tea a day are get[illegible] about the time it was da[illegible] that they would get in 10 years from fluoridated water, [illegible] Dr. W. W. McLuhan, [illegible] the B.C. Dental Association, [illegible] said.

So medical question has had such long and extensive study as water fluoridation, he said.

Water is now fluoridated in Smithers and Prince George, and Vancouver will vote on it soon.

"There are [illegible] the names," Dr. McLuhan said.

"The towns would be flooded with anti-fluoridation propaganda [illegible] the Island and [illegible] the attitudes."

DECAY SETS IN

Dr. McLuhan said [illegible] the benefits of fluoridation may hold good for children up to eight and nine years.

"But it has been proved that it will cut down tooth decay in adults as well," he said.

[illegible] insecticides were used in the Okanagan and the air carried it over Lake Okanagan, Dr. McLuhan said.

STARTLING DROP

"The fluorides dissolved in the lake and were [illegible] the water dropped and tooth decay increased rapidly," he said.

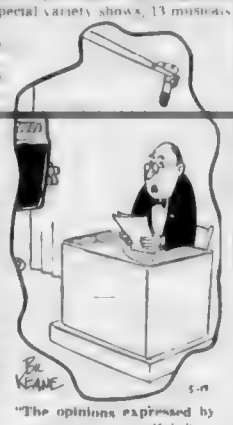
TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

Bits and pieces:

Frank Sinatra's Friday night shows on ABC next season will include two special variety shows, 13 musicals and 13 dramas all starring Sinatra and 10 dramas with him as host.

Best Playhouse '90 show since "The Comedian" was Hugh Marlowe's. Marlowe on Thursday and a great career should be ahead for Polly Bergen. Her acting and especially her singing, were wonderful. Hoagy Carmichael and Ronnie Burns also were good.



"The opinions expressed by me were my wife's."

Best viewing today is the Aston Villa-Manchester game the Preakness and the second last Caesar's Hour. Talking about the end of his nine year connection with NBC next week Caesar says: "Without the support of the network I would never have been able to achieve whatever measure of success I have attained."

"I Led Three Lives," the anti-Communist show, has been banned in Hong Kong. Colombia, Venezuela, Argentina and Australia as being too controversial. Showings in Britain and Mexico also have drawn some complaints.

The Alan Freed rock 'n roll shows, which cancel 5 stacks tonight are proving so successful that they may become a regular feature next season. Pinky Lee is coming back to NBC June 1 with another children's show. CBS has started writing a comedy series for Art Carney.

Mickey Spillane of all people is writing a colored detective series to star Henry Youngman. Former NBC president Pat "Spectacular" Weaver may produce six public affairs shows for CBS next fall to be emceed by Lowell Thomas.

Kevin Sweeney, president of the U.S. Radio Advertising Bureau, predicts that radios the size of a pack of cigarettes will be selling for $20 in a few years. The new Tugboat Annie series to start in the U.S. next fall will be filmed mostly around Toronto.

Ole Olson of Olson and Johnson has offered his $250,000 rumor library to wire the humorists at these rates: $100 an hour for all you can tape record. $50 an hour for all you can write down. $25 an hour for all you can remember."

And what is Madison Avenue's latest drink? It's a mixture of vodka, tomato juice and Gerritol called a tired bloody Mary.

Detour for Faith

In Plymouth, England, progress is taking a detour around a church. The Charles Church, left, is just a shell, and even though there are no plans to have it rebuilt, it will remain despite a new road through the heart of the town. At right, preliminary work is being done on the new highway, which is headed straight for the church. Before it reaches the structure, however, it will detour around the church. —(CPC)

Discourteous to Judge

Lawyer Fails to Show Up After Being Dressed Down

VANCOUVER (CP) — A defence counsel yesterday for the second time failed to show up in Assize Court after being ordered from the court Thursday.

Mr. Justice A. M. Manson had ordered senior defence lawyer Dugald J. McAlpine to leave the court because of a remark he made while addressing a jury in defence of three men charged with criminal assault.

Neither Mr. McAlpine nor his assistant, C. S. Ruhr, returned to the court when requested to do so 30 minutes after the defence counsel was ordered out. Mr. McAlpine had sent a message to Mr. Justice Manson saying he wished to consult with another lawyer before returning. The case was adjourned.

When court assembled yesyesterday, crown counsel W. A. Schultz announced he had not been able to contact Mr. McAlpine. The case was adjourned to Tuesday.

Mr. McAlpine was addressing the jury before calling his defence when Mr. Justice Manson told him he must confine his remarks to outline of evidence.

"Of course, I do not agree with that skeleton enunciation of it . . . I am fed up with interruptions," the lawyer said to the jurors.

When the judge asked Mr. McAlpine whether he was referring to his remarks, the lawyer said he would make no definite statement.

Mr. Justice Manson: "I take it then, Mr. McAlpine, that you have made no reference to any remarks or interruptions by me."

Mr. McAlpine: "I did not say that."

The judge: "All right, Mr. McAlpine, you will withdraw from the case. You cannot be heard further. I expect courtesy from an officer of this court. I do not have to take nasty remarks from a man who should be loyal to the court."

Mr. McAlpine: "Very good, my lord."

Being tried are Alfred Thomas McLean, John Knowlan and Alfred Railton. They are accused of picking up a 31-year-old woman last July 31 on the pretext of taking her to a party, taking her instead by car to Stanley Park and there criminally attacking her.

Cost of Hiring Sweeper 'Relatively Insignificant'

Rental charges by Esquimalt Service Ltd. for the use of a street-sweeper by Esquimalt municipality are a "relatively insignificant item" considering the work done, Coun. George Argyle declared yesterday.

In a prepared statement in reply to "constant rabid statements," he said: ". . . Over the past few years Esquimalt has constructed about 30 miles of curb and surface drains."

"We were successful once a few years ago in renting the city sweeper at $12 per hour to sweep our main street, but since then we have had to hand-sweep as much as was possible."

Cost of renting the street-sweeper in March was $612, billed at $8 an hour.

Finance committee chairman Coun. J. E. Carey said earlier this week he will recommend to council that payment be deferred until the bill is "cut in half."

European Labor Leaders Keep Hands Out of Pot

PARIS (NANA)—America's current furore over millionaire labor barons mystifies most Europeans. It's not a problem likely to arise here.

European labor leaders who amass personal fortunes, if they ever do, are careful not to splash their money around. In contrast to America, their followers have always been extremely touchy about union officials who live too well.

They are very apt, at least in non-Communist unions, to toss them out of office and back to the work bench if they show signs of losing the common touch, or touching the common funds.

In France for example, union officials usually are paid niggardly salaries—the secretary of the textile workers earns less than $80 a week—and there are slim pickings for any who might feel tempted to supplement their take-home pay by dipping into union coffers. This is not due to government regulations, but to the union members themselves.

MOSTLY UNION

The majority of French industrial and office workers belong to one union or another, and there are three major labor federations. But that does not mean that even militant unionists like to pay their dues. Being French, many of them don't.

Dues are light — generally not more than the equivalent of one or two hours' wages a month—but most workers pay only sporadically. It is almost unheard of for one of them to be expelled or even suspended for being in arrears.

Consequently, French unions, including the biggest ones like the coal miners and metal workers, seldom possess much of a bank balance. In a strike, they depend on emergency levies or the generosity of other unions. That is a big reason why strikes here are sharp, violent, but usually short.

Top English labor chieftains are paid handsome salaries compared to continental, though not American, standards. And there is often a knighthood or even a title waiting for those reaching the summit of trade union ranks.

But, though he may be in the cabinet or the House of Lords, the British labor union official invariably continues to live in his unpretentious "council house" or small flat, to tend his garden and to drop in at the local pub for an evening.

The late Ernest Bevin, who rose spectacularly from the London docks to be foreign minister and a tremendous political and labor power, set the standard in this respect and latter-day union leaders are careful to emulate him.

British unions are big and rich, even compared to American ones. But there has not been a major case of fraud or chicanery by union officials in several decades.

There are probably two chief reasons for this. One is the system of rigorous public accounting of funds to which British unions submit. The other is the constant surveillance kept on the affairs of its member unions by the all-embracing Trade Union Congress, the governing body of the British union movement. The TUC can and does check into the affairs of any union or even local where questions of mismanagement have arisen and has effective power to deal with them.

Gliding Interest Soars in Victoria

Russ Jeffs, 1054 Willow, has been appointed chairman of the newly-formed gliding and soaring club.

Other officers appointed were J. H. Ford, secretary, and J. W. Tibbetts and Attila Lothrigel, technical advisers.

More than 35 members, including four women, attended the organizational meeting and heard Vincent Redfern, an experienced glider, tell about "the thrill and fun of gliding."

"You can glide for more than five hours without the aid of power," explained Mr. Redfern.

In addition to Mr. Redfern's talk a temporary slate of officers was appointed to work out ways of buying a glider. They cost from $1,200 to $3,000.

A committee meeting will be held Monday, with the regular meeting on Tuesday.

Named to Moscow

Col. H. A. Phillips, 46, of Victoria, will become Canadian military attache in Moscow, army headquarters has announced.

'Free Clinics Only Weapon Against Dope'

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Progressive Conservative candidate Norman Mullins continues his private war against "the social cancer of drug addiction, whose tentacles are reaching out to affect every family in Canada."

Mullins brought three confessed drug addicts before a meeting to bolster his campaign proposal that free clinics are the only way to combat the growing traffic in narcotics.

Mullins maintained that the Liberal government was at fault in the illegal drug problem because it refused to face the real problem—that addicts are incurable and that immense profits encouraged illegal sales.

"The problem is a national conspiracy that has to be dealt with by the federal government," he said.

Eggs Down By Two Cents

Price drop on the Vancouver egg market has forced another decrease in retail egg prices in Victoria.

The average price now is 49 cents for a dozen Grade A large eggs and 47 cents for medium. This two-cent drop became effective Thursday.

The prices are being knocked down in an effort to move a large stock built up by a record spring crop.

Hate to See Him Go

Elvis Presley is a popular man with the nurses as he leaves Cedars of Lebanon Hospital after an emergency operation to remove a dislodged dental cap that wedged in a bronchial tube. A corps of nurses appeared from everywhere yesterday as Presley, wearing a blue silk shirt and fire red jacket, walked from the hospital to his Cadillac. The dental cap had dislodged Tuesday while Presley was doing a dance sequence at MGM studio. The nurses are Beverly Altomore, left, and Elissa Martyn.—(AP Photofax.)

Mother Kills Her Son Rather Than Lose Him

MONTREAL (CP)—Police said Friday that a 26-year-old mother drowned her 2½-year-old son in a bath tub because she was penniless and distraught over neighbors' suggestions she place the child for adoption.

Police said the woman was taken into custody after she had telephoned and asked that police be sent to her address.

As related by police, the woman told them she decided Friday morning to carry out a plan she had been considering for several weeks. She adored the boy but has been without money and has not received a cent from the child's father, stationed in Egypt with the United Nations Emergency Force.

About 6 a.m. she put her water in the bath tub of her little apartment on St. Denis Street and bathed the child. Then she turned the baby on his back and held him beneath the water until he no longer moved. She telephoned police.

When two officers arrived she was awaiting them.

"Upstairs," she said, "don't look for anyone else but me."

The officers found no one upstairs but at last saw the child in the tub. Constable M. Tremblay began artificial respiration. Constable H. Langlois notified headquarters and St. Justine Hospital.

First - aid personnel arrived within minutes. They kept up artificial respiration, with Constable Tremblay, but finally gave up when all hope of reviving the baby was gone.

Half-Century in Business

Well-Known Restaurateur Chan Dunn, Dies at 80

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. today at Sands Mortuary for Chan Dunn, 80, who died Thursday in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Mr. Chan was a well-known Victoria restaurant operator for half-a-century. He retired in 1950.

He is survived by his widow, at home, 1400 Government, and eight sons, Steven, Philip, Ira, Allan, Roy and Paul, of Victoria; Kan of Vancouver and Herbert of Winnipeg. Also surviving are four daughters and 30 grandchildren.

A resident of Victoria for 57 years, he started in the restaurant business in 1900.

He operated the Montreal Cafe, White Cafe, Tourist Cafe and in 1930 took over the Panama Cafe, where the Drake Hotel is now located. He later moved to the present premises of the Panama Cafe on Government Street.

His business is being carried on by his son, Philip.

Rev. Howard Ha will conduct funeral services, with interment in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Skillings Opens Campaign

'Even Liberals Doubt Tight Money Policy'

A "divided" Liberal government was responsible for a tight money policy that is strangling home construction in Canada, Victoria Social Credit candidate Waldo Skillings charged last night.

Mr. Skillings, former Victoria alderman, opened his election campaign before an audience of about 40 at Monterey School.

The tight money policy—"just one of those crazy ideas that (Finance Minister) Harris got hold of . . . and got his colleagues to agree to"—has federal cabinet ministers themselves, as well as "experts," divided, he said.

It has not been necessary, because there is no inflation in Canada, and it has severely cut down home building, Mr. Skillings said. He said it has caused the B.C. lumber industry to fall off badly.

Moving to the immigration department, he said many more new Canadians were sorely needed. The department, after "bumbling along in an inhuman and unscientific way," had suddenly announced there would be 200,000 immigrants this year, but now there will be no way of housing them, he said.

Unlike the provincial Social Credit government, he said, the Liberal administration was "not big enough . . . to take a second look . . . and admit its mistakes."

Mr. Skillings promised he would, if elected, fight for reduction of down payments and monthly installments on homes.

He said Socred policy was that long-term, low-interest mortgages with low down payments be instituted, and that the Income Tax Act be revised to allow deduction of interest payments on mortgages as a tax exemption.

THREE PER CENT

He said the maximum interest rate on home building loans should be three per cent rather than the present six per cent.

Taking a direct slap at the Victoria member of the last Parliament Dr. Frank T. Fairey, Liberal, Mr. Skillings asked, "how many times has your representative spoken out in your behalf?"

He mentioned an editorial in a national magazine entitled, "Let's Weed Out the Speechless Fools."

"Should I be your representative . . . I will not qualify under the heading of that editorial," the candidate promised.

REPAIR BOMB DAMAGE

West Germany estimates she has repaired all but 7.2 per cent of the railway bridges destroyed during the Second World War.

Helpful Police Taken for Ride

VANCOUVER — RCMP are considering laying public mischief charges against a couple who got a police escort from Hope to Vancouver.

An RCMP patrol car stopped a speeding car at Hope and officers were told by the driver that a woman in the back seat was critically ill and that he was taking her to Vancouver for medical attention.

Obliging police escorted the car to Chilliwack, where another patrol took over. On arrival at Vancouver General Hospital, medical authorities said the woman was not ill at all. They refused her admittance.
